THE PERSON BEHIND THE SHIELD

A playable companion, not the protagonist of the Echo Below

FOLK-HERO STORY

Dracuseth earned 'Maw of Flames' during a roadside granary fire set by raiders. His breath drove attackers away from the exits, but what people remembered was the dragonborn who stayed in the smoke until the last family was out. The nickname embarrassed him at first. He now keeps it because frightened travelers seem steadier when they believe the person guarding them has already survived a fire.

He took the Oath of Devotion afterward, making one promise he could keep every day: tell the truth, defend the vulnerable, and never use fear as a shortcut to obedience. Gundren hired him as an additional caravan guard. He has no prior knowledge of the medallion, the Echo, the Still Hand, or Halaster.

ROLEPLAY ANCHORS

Trait	Counts people before supplies. Checks whether the quietest person has had food and water. Speaks plainly, with dry warmth.
Ideal	Strength is for giving others room to choose - not choosing for them.
Bond	The ordinary travelers who gave him his name deserve a world in which protection is not reserved for the wealthy.
Flaw	He takes responsibility too quickly and can mistake carrying every burden for helping. He must learn to ask before stepping in.

VOICE

'Who is still missing?' | 'You do not need to be brave alone.' | 'I can hold the door. You decide where we go.'

PARTY RELATIONSHIPS

Trista: He respects her generosity and never claims the right to decide what happens to Echo's Whisper. Donavan: He makes time for careful records, even when he is impatient to move. Ringgo: He builds trust through shared work, without pressing for a confession about the past.

THE SIMPLE TURN LOOP

Before danger	Shield equipped; Inspiring Leader after rest; ask who is taking point and who needs cover.
First round	Bless the three PCs if useful; otherwise use Shield of Faith on the most exposed ally. Both require Concentration.
During combat	Hold a defensible position, hit once with Sap, keep line of sight to fallen allies, and use healing when a PC reaches 0 HP.
After combat	Count survivors, share a short rest if safe, and leave clues and decisions to the players.

Revision note: This is a table-ready copy of the supplied static PDF, not an edit to the D&D Beyond character builder. It applies the requested support build: shield equipped (AC 18), Inspiring Leader replacing Two-Weapon Fighting (CHA 17), and a revised five-spell support list. The original export is preserved.

Equipment: Chain mail, shield, longsword, six javelins, holy-symbol amulet, holy water, lamp, rations, adventuring gear, cook's utensils, alchemist's supplies, shovel, iron pot, common clothes; 19 gp. Warhammer Push mastery is selected but no warhammer is carried.
